Trygg Co. Low Bidder On Front St. Paving

Trygg Paving Co., of Joliet, was the apparent lowest bidder on the repaving of Front street between Mokena and Division streets, according to the compilation of figures at the meeting of the Mokena village board last week.

The Trygg Paving firm, which had the contract for rehabilitating Front street between Mokena and Wolf road, submitted a figure of $14,247.50.

The next lowest bid was $16,997 submitted by Material Paving Co., also of Joliet, and the top price was that of M. J. Zudema & Co., of Worth - $18,110.

Only three bids were submitted.

They will be forwarded to the state highway department at Elgin for checking and when approval comes from there the contract can be let and work started as soon as possible.

Ralph Yunker, village engineer, suggested that the performance bond be attached to the contract to assure a definite period of time for completion. The board approved of this move.

There were delays in the repaving of the stretch of street between Mokena and Wolf road and the project had to be carried over the winter and completed in the spring. The board does not want to have that experience repeated.

The road is to be regraded and blacktopped with curb and gutters.

There is to be some widening and this will mean, it was stated, that sidewalks effected by the work will have to be replaced at the expense of the property owners. It was pointed out that most of the walks are in great need of repair or replacement.

CUTTING OUT THE CALVES--One of the prime reasons for the breeding of quarter horses, which were featured at the Triple R Ranch Horse Show last weekend, is their use as cutting horses. These quick-moving horses are taught to herd (or "cut") the most skittish cattle with the greatest possible speed. Here one of the cowpokes tries his horse in the calf-cutting competition. Carnival Spirit Will Mark Mokena C. of C. Fiesta Days

Altho designed primarily to stimulate business a carnival spirit will mark the Mokena Chamber of Commerce Fiesta Days program that is to begin Saturday, June 30 and continue thru the Fourth of July. The Mokena Lions are assisting.

An auction, a parade, a queen, a talent show contest, and a fireworks display are some of the highlights of the affair which the Chamber of Commerce hopes to make an annual event.

The parade, which will be a part of the festivities marking the Fourth is to form on the Carpenter Street school grounds in time to move off at 1 o'clock.

The Lincoln-Way high school band is to march as are the Dominos, the precision drilled, all-girl color guard of Frankfort which is sponsored by the Bobzin - Swinford post of the American Legion, and it is expected other organizations and clubs will have units in the parade.

According to Will Tuttle, general chairman, between 35 and 40 vehicles, including floats, will take part. The parade will be about half a mile in length, Tuttle said, and will move off from the school grounds south on Division street to Front, thence west to Wolf road, south to LaPorte road and thence east to Mokena Community park.

The parade will be judged and three trophies are to be awarded, one for the best float, one for originality and one for the best marching unit. Norval Robinson is to be marshal of the parade.

There will be booths set up at the park by various clubs, churches and service organizations for games, food and soft drinks.

A platform is to be erected there for the talent show. Roy Harling will be the master of ceremonies for this event. Later the platform will be used for dancing.

In the evening -- when it is dark enough -- there will be fireworks display. Everyone is invited to attend.

A free lunch is to be served on the parking lot of the Mokena State bank at noon on Saturday, June 1. At 1 o'clock there is to be an auction sale on the Rock Island parking lot on Front street, with Edward Schmaedke of Orland Park, a professional auctioneer, in charge.

Anyone with anything to sell may bring it to the auction. The seller will receive 90 per cent of the price, the other 10 per cent going to the Chamber of Commerce to be applied on the cost of the five-day program.

Merchants sponsoring girls in the queen contest are giving discount cards with every vote cast. The votes are 10 cents and the discount is 10 per cent on purchases that run to a dollar or more.

Cheryl Hearn, whose announcement as a queen contestant came late to be included in the list published last week, brings the number in the contest up to eight. She is sponsored by Ordman's Park and Shop.

The other contestants and the firm they represent are: Mary Ellen Segvich, Mokena Pharmacy; Joan Sorensen, Ryder's service station; Janet Marshall, Doc's restaurant; Wanda Jeffers, Wannemacher's Midwest; Lorna McArthur, Pearl's Beauty Salon; Carroll Muehler, Goharsik's Royal Blue and Gayle Harling, Tuttle Electric.

Three prizes will be awarded to the public -- gift certificates for merchandise -- $100, $50 and $25.

The queen will be crowned at ceremonies in the park on the Fourth of July. There will be awards for the winners.

Mrs. Peterson Appointed Accept 'With Regret' NL Librarian's Resignation

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Township of New Lenox Library Board it was with deep regret that the resignation of Laura Morris as librarian was accepted. Mrs. Morris resignation resulted from her being unable to continue her dedicated service to and unfailing interest in the library. She has served as librarian here since 1941 when the library was located in Havens school. She has moved with it from that room to the Amos Bruns building, the Hauck building and its present located on Church street, south of Lincoln highway. For some time now Mrs. Morris has been unable to be at the library and her office has been filled by the assistant librarian.

Mrs. Algot Peterson has been appointed full time librarian by the board. Mrs. Peterson has been assisting Mrs. Morris since 1957 and is well equipped to take over.

The Board of Directors also welcomed a new member, Ronald Crisman of Lincolnwood who will fill the vacancy left by the recent death of Fred Schild who had been president of the board of directors for many years. A. D. Miller is currently acting president.

Mokena Resident Makes Generous Gift To Library

A generous gift to the children's section of the Mokena library was made last week by Mrs. Rudolph Engelhardt, 276 Carpenter st.

Accompanied by Mrs. Phillip Lenz, president of the Mokena Book club, and Mrs. Robert Olson, librarian, Mrs. Engelhardt went to the book section of Marshall Fields where she spent $125 on books for children.

The books are being cataloged and some of them should be ready for circulation this week. There is a small rental charge on books for adults -- except those loaned the local library by the state library -- but the books for youngsters are circulated free of charge.

The new books will be available for the annual children's book reading contest. The contest began last Friday, June 29 and will run thru August. It would have begun on Wednesday of this week but because that is the Fourth of July the contest started last week end. The library was closed this Wednesday, of course, because of the holiday.

Prizes will be given to youngsters who read the most books. Details may be obtained from the library.

"The library is grateful indeed to Mrs. Engelhardt for her generous gift," said Mrs. Lenz. "We have to depend upon friends of the library for contributions and donations to continue its operation and a gift of this size is unprecedented. All of the children of the community can benefit from Mrs. Engelhardt's generosity."

Public Auction Set Saturday

Saturday the public is invited to a gala auction sale being held by the Mokena Chamber of Commerce at the Rock Island parking lot near the depot. The public is invited to bring articles to be auctioned and 90% of the receipts will go to the owner.

The auction will be preceded by a lunch consisting of a free hot dog, soft drink and potato chips for the public (one lunch to a customer) from 12 til 2. The lunch will be held in the bank parking lot.

Ed Schmaedke, the auctioneer, will begin calling out the bargains at 1 p.m.

Gets Grant For Seminar At Normal

Miss Nancy Beedle, daughter of the Paul W. Beedles of 1238 N. Elm Drive, New Lenox, has been awarded a scholarship grant to attend the summer seminar program at Illinois State Normal university July 8-27. Nancy will be a senior at Lincoln-Way in September.

Miss Beedle's scholarship is one of 24 granted in competition with more than 300 outstanding students from throughout Illinois. Funds for the awards were made available by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Illinois State Normal University Foundation.

All students considered for the program were designated by their high schools as "outstanding students capable of profiting from intensive study in a highly academic area."

Miss Beedle will work with Howard I. Fielding of the department of English, in a tutorial relationship. In the course of the three week seminar, she will do research, prepare a paper, and present her findings to a university class or a public symposium. She also will participate in a complete counseling program designed to identify educational and vocational interests and abilities. The purpose of the seminars is to help outstanding juniors experience college level work in order that they may better prepare themselves for college during their senior year in high school.

A letter from George T. Wilkins, state superintendent of public instruction, stating how much he enjoyed a recent visit to Lincoln-Way high school, has been received by Supt. A. Hunter Chapman.

"Dale Coleman who accompanied me," Wilkins wrote, "stated he had never been so impressed with such a well-behaved, enthusiastic group of high school students. He thought their school spirit was terrific, and I have to say amen in agreement."

The state school head also had high praise for the Aegis, the 1962 year book.

"The format is certainly unique in that it not only covers the school's activities," Wilkins stated, "but carries a fine public relations message to the parents and citizens of Lincoln-Way community high school district. It also covers all of the comprehensive programs being offered that will provide for the physical, mental, emotional, moral and spiritual development of the students attending Lincoln-Way. It is one of the finest yearbooks I have ever examined."

Mr. Wilkins also commended the work Asst. Supt. Donald D'Amico is doing as curriculum director.

This work will be paid for by motor fuel tax money, Eastwood St. is now open to the public and owing to several soft spots in the fill it will have to have additional gravel as needed. New Lenox people are asked to dump their extra fill off to either side of Eastwood providing there is no garbage in it. $13,767 of motor fuel tax will be spent on this project.

Tornado Crashes Into Oak Forest Community Saturday

BY MARY JANE JOHNSON
At 4:55 p.m. last Saturday a tornado touched down at 148th st. just west of Central Ave. and tore a path of destruction thru the newly-developed Elvita subdivision in Oak Forest.

At 4:30 p.m. it had been a typical summer Saturday afternoon and about 30 children were swimming in the Elvita pool when a storm blew up and it began lightning. According to Brad Kinchloe, one of the life guards, everyone was ordered out of the water.

John Berryman, the pool manager was sitting by the pool bathhouse and facing northwest when he saw the tornado funnel and realized it was dropping down. Berryman, Kinchloe and another life guard, Gil Hopper, quickly got everyone into the brick bath-house and had them lie on the floor.

Kinchloe said the children were frightened and some of the little girls were crying, but there was no panic. This was the second time Kinchloe, who lives in Park Forest, as do the other two men, has gone thru a tornado and he said he hopes he never has to be in another one. "It's a terrible experience," he said.

There was no damage and no one was hurt at the pool, but a house just north of the pool had the roof blown off.

At the same time just a little west of the pool at 14818 Major street, Mrs. Gerald Flanagan, her nine year old daughter, Kathy, and a playmate of Kathy's, Delores Dean, were sitting in the living room of the new home that the Flanagans had occupied only two months.

NOT IMAGINATION
Hearing what Mrs. Flanagan thought to be rain or hail hitting against the house, Kathy opened the drapes to look out and called to her mother that it was a tornado. Mrs. Flanagan thought the child was imagining it but looked out to see debris hitting against the house and two by fours flying thru the air.

The three of them went quickly to the basement and from the crashes above thought surely their home had been blown down.

"It was all over in a few minutes, but it was terrible and when we came out we heard another one was coming in 20 minutes but thank God it never did," said Mrs. Flanagan.

The Flanagans think they are lucky, that weren't hurt and they had very little damage inside their home, it is still livable.

A couple of blocks further west at the same time last Saturday afternoon the Charles Girard family were cooking a barbecue when the storm came up, Girard and his son Ronald pulled the grill into the garage and Mrs. Girard went upstairs to close up, and Girard's mother, Mary Girard went out to bring in the garbage can which was blowing about.

CAN FLIES AWAY
As she went to get the can it suddenly flew up in the air and she sought shelter in the corner of the stairwell and clung to the iron railing.

Inside, Mrs. Girard was half way upstairs when the window blew in and the roof started ripping off. She started back for the basement and as she went to open the basement door the front door blew open and she was pinned between the two doors.

"It was terrifying," said

Sunday, but thanks to the additional manpower from neighboring police and civil defense units the tight seal was maintained on the area and the clean up progressed quickly.

Monday, Chief Ernest Perry of the Oak Forest police, who was still at the emergency headquarters set up at 148th and Central, estimated that about 50 homes were severely damaged and about 12 of these are unlivable. He said that there was no serious injuries, only bruises and cuts from flying glass and debris.

It was quiet by Monday in this stricken community, everyone was still a little shocked and couldn't believe what had happened but they tried to keep things normal, the pool was opened, children were riding their bikes and the mail man was making his deliveries.

But here and there people gathered in twos, and threes and were saying how good everyone had been, how lucky they were that none had been hurt or killed, and inquired if the insurance adjuster had been there yet.

The tornado had left a path of destruction here but it had also left a closeness, a neighborliness that will remain long after the last board and shingle have been put back into place.

Help At Oak Forest Tornado

A group of Mokena Civil Defense officials joined Will County auxiliary Police from Mokena in assisting police, firemen and other CD workers at the scene of the Oak Forest tornado.

Called out Saturday afternoon were Anthony Dina, C.D. director, Fred Rauch, assistant fire chief, Ray Newton, assistant Police Chief, Ray Bisgrove, Wesley Schultz, Joe Heim and Don Schlegel.

Auxiliary police called were Capt. John VanDonk, Lt. George Kaehler, Robert Porter, Sgt. Rudy Urbane, Fred Breymer, John Tyler and Larry Harris.

Servant Or Master? A Tax Bite

The Saturday Evening Post of May 22 carries an editorial that was printed at a fortuitous time—just before Memorial Day. And it contains fundamental statements which every American should remember, with pride and gratitude. In part it says: "America is not a perfect society, and its people are not required to pretend that it is. Our newspapers, magazines, pundits and commentators constantly criticize the Government. The President of the United States reads an astonishing amount of this criticism. Sometimes he gets mad, and sometimes he accepts the advice of his critics. But although this country is by no means perfect, it is constantly changing for the better. The change is sometimes slow, but it happens without bringing up the tanks or purging our political leaders."

"All things considered, we believe that our system of government has enabled its people to achieve a better life than any other system on earth. This may sound like an immodest claim, but what other great nation has combined such a high standard of living with such a high degree of individual freedom? Communism? The Communists have murdered freedom in the streets of Budapest and East Berlin. They have promised a workers paradise on earth, and they are unable to provide their people with enough to eat."

"We believe that government is not an end in itself. It exists solely to provide a climate in which the people may make the most of their abilities and live their own lives in security and peace. This means that government must be vigilant, and it must be active in many areas, but it must be the servant of the people and not their master."

Two investor-owned New Jersey electric utilities, typical of scores in the United States, recently ran advertisements in newspapers of their area that told an interesting and important story.

It's a tax story—and, thus, of interest to us all.

Last year these companies paid community taxes of $8,177,530. That money went to pay for schools, roads, and all the other things and services that local government must provide in modern civilization.

Then they paid another $6,817,641 in other taxes, of which the federal income tax was the biggest beneficiary. The tax bite was 19 cents out of every dollar the companies collected from their customers. The advertisements make this moderate and irrefutable statement: "The companies are not in accord with the manner in which some of this large amount of money is spent. The federal government is using tax money to build needless electric facilities in direct competition with tax-paying electric utilities. It then sells the power to preferred customers at prices which do not reflect taxes, because it pays little if any..."

How big, the nation over, is this particular tax matter? Answer: Last year the total taxes paid by the investor-owned electric utility companies—which helped to finance every governmental activity, including, ironically, the extension of socialized power plants that eliminate or prevent the building of tax-paying private plants—amounted to $2,450,000,000.

If the Internal Revenue Service and Congress really want to plug tax loopholes, they should bring tax-dodging federal commercial enterprises under current tax laws.

"Righteousness, or justice, is, undoubtedly of all the virtues, the surest foundation on which to create and establish a new state. But there are two nobler virtues, industry and frugality, which tend more to increase the wealth, power and grandeur of the community, than all the others without them." Benjamin Franklin.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

"We are told today to think big," observed Jefferson P. Throttlebottom the bourbon philosopher, as he sank into a chair alongside the desk after deftly removing a couple of cigars from my shirt pocket.

"I have no quarrel with that," he went on, "but I would not have fast thinking sold short... Thinking big is important but fast thinking can be important too, most important."

"To be able to look ahead visualize the effects of what results could be expected if certain moves are made spells the difference between the masters and the clerks, whether it be in checkers, business or the professions."

I murmured something to the effect that in this regard and in certain lines of endeavor Mr. Throttlebottom was no slouch himself.

"Please," he begged, "While I may have an occasional minor success in reading angles I am not among the fast thinkers, not properly."

"When I brought up the subject it was because I was thinking of an exchange of reminiscences today with Frank Gopodoric, a man of many enterprises and most of them profitable."

"We were talking about lawyers," Jeff went on and Frank pointed out how the top hands in the field were those who thought fast and looked far ahead.

"There was one attorney that Frank told about who was known to me altho I had never heard this story before. This lawyer was well known in Joliet and Will county. He was not only prominent in legal circles but was also socially prominent and took an active part in many civic affairs."

"Most of his work was with corporations and business firms but occasionally he might take on other cases. One time he handled a divorce case that before it was finished caused several headaches."

"The complainant was the wife of a rather prominent businessman. He had met her while out east on a business trip and after what some like to refer to as a whirlwind courtship they were married. She got tired after a couple of years of married life and I suppose her husband did too. Anyway she filed for divorce and got it."

"Now that was quite a number of years ago when a lawyer's fee in these parts for a divorce was around $25, sometimes $15 if it was a default case. Of course some lawyers charged more --$35 say or on rare occasions $50 or $75. How to arrive at a fee was as much of an art as the presentation of a case, I have heard some of the old time lawyers say. Sometimes you could make a client happy by charging a small fee and he would keep coming back with more business so in the course of a year he became a fair-paying customer. Sometimes a high fee was assessed—not only as fair compensation for services performed but for some people a high fee fed their ego and made them feel important."

"In this particular case the lawyer charged the woman $150 which was a very substantial fee indeed for an uncontested divorce suit. In making the cash settlement that had been agreed upon the husband added the $150 for the attorney's fee so that really it was just a bookkeeping transaction for her to pay the lawyer."

"She paid but she didn't like it. About a week later she called the attorney and said she was about ready to leave town but she had to see him first on some business. She couldn't come to his office during regular hours, she said, because her remaining time in the city was limited so would appreciate it if he would see her that evening about 8 o'clock in his office. He agreed, made a phone call, and at 8 o'clock he was there to greet her at the door and usher her into his private office."

"He was an affable, courtly chap, this attorney, not unappreciative of feminine charm. There was an exchange of small talk and then his visitor told him she thought his fee had been too high. The more she thought about it, she said, the more she was convinced that the amount was outrageous."

"What did she think would be a reasonable fee, the lawyer inquired gently. His client pointed out that she was a lone woman with her way to make in a man's world. A reasonable fee, in her estimation, was 0-0-0, or to sum up—nothing."

"The attorney pointed out that by reducing the figure to zero there was little basis left on which to negotiate. His caller pointed out that on the contrary there was considerable basis if one were to figure his reputation on a dollar and cents basis."

"Unless he returned her $150 forthwith she was prepared to disarrange her coiffure, tear her clothing and go rushing out of the building screaming. There were enough people on the street, she added, taking a look out of the window, to make the experiment quite interesting."

glance, that was suffering because his faith in a fellow human being had been shattered. "The woman was frightened now and crying when one of the detectives wiggled an imperative finger at her and the purse she managed to get it open. Sure enough it contained $200 in a sheaf of bills; it also contained a handsome pearl tie-pin."

"The lawyer sighed. He was very sorry, he said. Why hadn't she told him she needed money. He would have been glad to have loaned her some. Such a pity, such a pity that a woman like her should go to prison."

"He appeared to be thinking. Suddenly he smirked the desk with his hand. "By George, I can't do it," said, and he turned to the two policemen. His voice and manner were stern.

"Look men," he said, "I will not testify against this woman. I think that she has learned a lesson. I have my money back, my pin is returned. I have lost nothing but this poor woman can lose a great deal. Let's all forget about this. Just sign this, my dear," shoving a paper toward her that was a release, holding himself and the two officers clear of any court action or charge of false arrest."

"She signed. The next day she was gone. "Incidentally, Frank said, the attorney, didn't get all of the $150 fee—just $130 of it as he gave each of the officers a sawbuck."

"You see he has vision. When the woman called for an evening appointment the attorney thought she had something larcenous in mind and so called a friend at the police station, asking him to hold himself in readiness in the event he had trouble. When he went to get the money he called his friend to say that trouble had arrived and to come on. You can see that is really pays to think."

"You were kind enough one day to admire this tie pin," he said, touching a handsome pearl, "and I wish you would accept this," he went on gallantly and with a winning smile, "as a token of my deep appreciation of a woman with such dash and spirit."

"With that he hands her the pin. She seemed a bit confused but she took it. They chatted on for possibly another five minutes, perhaps a little longer. Then he led her to the door, bowed her out and returned to his desk chair and sat down."

"Meanwhile, the woman had made her way to the ground level floor where she encountered two men. She was about to pass them when they blocked her way."

"Police," said one of them, holding out a badge for her inspection. He went on to explain they had received a call that she had stolen $200 and a pearl tie pin from the office of Lawyer So-and-So."

"She denied it, indignantly denied it. The officer pointed out that since she was innocent he was sure she wouldn't object to opening her purse. Better yet, come with them to the lawyer's office. She could open the purse there. If the money and pin were in the purse they would have to take her in—if it wasn't they would take the lawyer in."

"The three went up the stairs. When they went in the attorney's office he was sitting at his desk. He looked sad, dejected. Here was a man, one could see at a

4-H NEWS

BY ELAINE YUNKER

When I was chosen as a delegate to State 4-H Week to represent my 4-H Club, the Alpine Girls, I was very pleased.

To me 4-H week was an opportunity to meet many members of 4-H and to obtain new ideas from them. It was also a very educational three days at the University of Illinois. In the four half-hour interest groups I attended much was learned about safety, flower arranging, pictures and table settings, which I will take back to my club. This is a wonderful way in which members can learn more about projects and possibly set up goals toward a career.

The speakers all talked with emphasis on careers, thus, trying to help open the members eyes to the many opportunities.

I urge all 4-H members to work hard so your club feels you would be a worthy member and delegate. Those not in 4-H I urge you to join—you don't know the experiences or fun you are missing.

This was truly a rewarding experience in my 4-H career and I publicly thank my leader, Mrs. Stellwagen, the members of the club, my parents and the county extension advisors.

Hints For Homeowners

By: JAMES FIZZELL
ASS'T FARM ADVISER
At this season of the year, many city dwellers "just itch" to spend their leisure time in the great outdoors. Most of them who contact poison ivy will really itch. However, they will not be the only sufferers. Construction men, utility linemen, and other outdoor workers can be just as susceptible.

With modern effective weed killers, you can kill this pest that causes so much misery and suffering each year. But first you must learn to identify poison ivy.

IDENTIFICATION - Poison ivy, a perennial woody plant, varies greatly in the way it grows and in the appearance of its leaves. It may spread along the ground, grow as a vine on fences, walls, or trees, or grow as a shrub.

THE POISON - The skin irritant in poison ivy is found in sap of the roots, stems, leaves, and berries. Although some people apparently are more immune than others, those who consider themselves immune may become susceptible after sufficient exposure.

A very small quantity of the poison may produce severe inflammation and can be transferred from one object to another. Clothing, garden tools, and pets may become contaminated and serve as a source of infection. The poison may also be carried in smoke from burning poison ivy plants.

CONTROL - Modern weed-killing chemicals (herbicides) offer the easiest and safest method of controlling poison ivy. The herbicides mentioned here, when handled properly, will effectively kill poison ivy. But don't allow them to contact desirable plants. To avoid drift to desirable plants, spray on a quiet day when there is no wind. In all cases, read and follow directions on the container labels.

AMITROLE (3-amino-1, 2, 4-triazole) is most effective for killing poison ivy. You may find it under such trade names as Amino Triazole, Weedazol, and Poison Ivy Killer. Aerosol cans containing amitrole provide a convenient method for treating small patches.

For treating with a small hand sprayer, mix 3 level tablespoons of the commercial preparation containing 50 percent amitrole with one gallon of water. For large areas, mix one pound of the 50 percent material in 25 gallons of water.

You can apply amitrole from the time the plants make their early spring growth and the leaves reach full size until they begin to change color in the fall. Thoroughly wet the entire plant with spray, but do not let amitrole contact desirable plants. If there's a chance that you will damage desirable plants by spraying, apply amitrole to ivy leaves with a long-handled brush.

BRUSH KILLER is the name commonly applied to mixtures of 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T. The mixture kills poison ivy more effectively than 2, 4-D alone. Brush killer, convenient for treating poison ivy, will also kill other undesirable woody plants where the two grow together. Most grasses tolerate 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T better than amitrole. But, 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T increase the danger of drifting vapor to desirable broadleaved plants in the area.

Apply brush killer when the plants reach the full leaf stage in the late spring or summer. If regrowth occurs, repeat the treatment. If a sprayer has been used for brush killer, do not use it for spraying ornamentals or crops sensitive to these weed killers.

Bell Offers Automatic Phone Dialing Devices

Two new types of automatic dial telephones which provide greater ease and efficiency in placing calls are now available in Illinois. It was announced today by Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

These new products, Card Dialer and Rapidial, are designed primarily for business use. Both operate on the principle of automatic dialing of pre-recorded telephone numbers.

This new development in automatic dialing is designed to aid people who make many calls or who call the same numbers frequently. Both models increase efficiency of the telephone as an aid in any type of business. They minimize errors in dialing and speed the mechanics of phoning and they can be used for local, long distance or internal calls.

Although similar in concept, the two new dialers serve slightly different needs. Card Dialer has the automatic dialing mechanism built right into the telephone. It has an unlimited capacity and is especially useful in calling groups of individuals regularly. Coded plastic cards, on which the user has previously punched out the specified telephone number, control the dialing equipment.

Rapidial is a separate unit with a built-in memory and is used as a companion to a regular telephone. It has a capacity of up to 290 names and numbers which can be easily recorded or changed on magnetic tape by the user, he said.

Telephone numbers are automatically dialed by turning the directory selector knob to the desired name, lifting the receiver and pressing the start bar.

Both of these new phone units share the advantage of enabling the user to make more calls in less time. The two models provide a choice to meet individual telephone requirements.

Take Bids To Start Work On I&M Canal Highway

(CNS) Bids were opened by the county board last week for the first construction job on the $166 million Southwest Expressway, otherwise known as the I. and M. Canal Expressway or County Road 207. It covered excavation, construction of the embankment and of a concrete storm sewer from 12 to 108 inches in diameter on the 3,568 miles between 323 feet west of Cicero avenue and 1,899 feet west of Harlem avenue.

Low bidder was Thomas M. Madden and Co. and Lindahl Brothers, a joint venture, with $2,104,613.55. The contract will be awarded at the next meeting of the board on July 17.

According to County Highway Supt. William J. Mortimer, although it is hoped to open the Cicero-Harlem stretch first, this cannot be for at least two years because difficult problems of right-of-way exist and there are bridges to be built or widened at both of those cross streets and Central avenue.

Of the total Southwest Expressway job, the county is handling $66.3 million; the state $54.4, and the city $46.3, with 90 per cent of the money coming from the federal government.

Getting ready for its other two stretches, the county board Tuesday also authorized the acquisition of property from Harlem to La Crosse and from Halsted to Throop streets. The 17-mile road will run from McCormick Plaza at 23rd street to US-66 at 71st st.

STUNNED -- Oak Forest residents who lived in El Vista subdivision were stunned by the tornado which hit there Saturday afternoon and it took some time for them to realize that what had begun with a barbecue or a swim in the community pool, ended in a real disaster. By a miracle, no one was killed, although dozens of homes were damaged and destroyed by the big twister.

TORN APART -- Throughout the El Vista subdivision of Oak Forest there was a variety of lumber, shingles, personal possessions and other valuables which were strewn there by Saturday afternoon's tornado. Quick work by police and firemen in the southwest suburbs prevented any looting and kept curiosity seekers out of the area entirely.

Expect Corn Yield to Set Another Record

All indications are that 1962 may produce another record corn yield per acre. For the past five years, the average yield has been going up-up-up; in 1957 it was 47.1 bushels; 1958 - 51.8 bushels; 1959 - 51.5 bushels; 1960 - 54.5 bushels and 1961-61 bushels. By comparison, the ten year average yield in the decade of the 1950's was 44.1 bushels.

Four states - Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, and Indiana - produce over half of the United States corn crop. The foremost factor in predicting possible yields is subsoil moisture. And all of these states and most of the areas adjoining them are well supplied this year.

Heavier-than-average snowfall was the general rule this past winter. And in most sections, the snow came early and stayed late. For example, Humboldt, Iowa, had a snow cover for almost 150 days. Even the low winter temperatures were comparable to the winter of 1936, soil usually did not freeze deeply, as the snow cover fell before severe temperatures began. This condition allowed much of the melting snow water to penetrate directly into the soil.

The heaviest snow belt this year centered in the area of southern Minnesota, northwestern Iowa and southeastern South Dakota.

"What can I take apart?" asks Baby Matthew. With him are the refrigerator, toaster, food mixer, roaster, coffeemaker, can opener, knife sharpener, meat slicer, fry pan, hot dog cooker, hand mixer, disposer, 2 shavers, blender (behind Matthew).

Young Brad enjoys results from the ice cream maker. Under him a 21 cu. ft. freezer, 2 TV sets, hair dryer, stereo hi-fi, well heater, drill, pump motor, electric scissors, fire starter, light bulbs: 75-watt (10), 25-watt (13), 100-watt (16), 3-way (50-100-200-watt)-4, and 3 fluorescent-cents-30, 20, 15-watt.

Little Bill reports:

46¢ worth of electricity a day
runs all these appliances for the Bettenhausens

Most folks are mighty surprised at the number of electric helpers they own. The Bettenhausens were. They now have many more electrical appliances than they started with and are actually using about three times as much electricity. But the Bettenhausens, like all of us, are paying less for it per kilowatt hour than they did years ago. One reason for this is the Power Grid System which connects our power lines with companies in thirty-two other states.

With this system we can often buy (or sell) power at advantageous rates which helps keep the price you pay down.

That's another reason why it costs so little to live better electrically today!

The R. Bettenhausens live in Tinley Park, Ill. Average cost of their electricity was computed by adding their electric bills for last year, Sept. 7, 1960, to Sept. 7, 1961, and dividing by 365 days. Naturally, costs vary according to a family's living habits.

MRS. KATHARINE HEISNER FRANKFORT 5187

Several prenuptial showers have been given honoring Miss Donna Miller recently, who will become the bride of Roger Corp of New Lenox, Saturday, June 30 at 3 p.m. in the Frankfort Methodist Church. About 35 attended a miscellaneous shower that was given June 13, in the home of Mrs. Durward Killinger in New Lenox with assisting hostesses, Miss Bessie Sproat, Mrs. Francis Nelson and Mrs. Adella Sproat. They presented Miss Miller with a white carnation corsage centered with yellow rosebuds, the bride-elect's chosen colors.

A personal shower was held in the home of Miss Lorna Miller as hostess when 12 girl friends were entertained, on June 15 in the evening.

The Lester Heisner home was selected for another miscellaneous shower Sunday afternoon, June 17. A white carnation corsage was presented the bride-to-be by the hostesses, Miss Nancy Heisner, Mrs. Joseph Ficker of Tinley Park and Mrs. Edward Lane of Culver, Ind. Twenty guests were in attendance.

Attending from here, a variety shower held for the bride-to-be at Odell, Ill., were the families of Harry Miller and Royal Corp. The gathering was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith. Various games with duplicate prizes were awarded in the various home with decorations in yellow and white, including the tables from which refreshments were served. Many gifts were received by the honored guest.

Open house was held Sunday, June 17 for Miss Priscilla Smego, a graduate of Lincoln-Way high school at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Smego. They had about 65 relatives and friends in her honor. They were from Joliet, New Lenox, Frankfort and Mokena.

Mrs. Arthur Burroughs of Chicago returned to her home after spending a week with her cousin Blanche Mitchell.

Sunday, June 17, the family of Blanche Mitchell dined out for dinner at the Blue Willow restaurant in honor of Mrs. Mitchell's 77th birthday.

Thursday, June 21, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kovach Jr. and family of Hammond, Ind., spend the afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Smego.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stephen

Mr. Alvin Harnack has retired as custodian after 8 1/2 years. Due to the death of the treasurer, Mr. Lawrence Woodman a new treasurer, James Walker was hired also. Woodman held the office for 15 years, prior to his death.

The two Smego girls, Jerri and Sharon are assistant director and camp counselor respectively. The camp is at Shady Oaks in Lockport. They left for the camp June 17 and will be there for 10 weeks. Eugene Hackett of Evergreen Park is director and it is sponsored by the Sons of Freedom. The camp is for cerebral palsy children from grade school and up.

John Victor was the name given the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ellis, when baptized last Sunday morning in St. Peters United Church of Christ with the Rev. Erich Bizer officiating. The sponsors were Miss Norma Krumweide and Melvin Eisenbrandt. Later a dinner was served in the Ellis home.

Homer

Henry Thormahlen And Peter Reiter Succumb To Illness

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Sontag-Burgess-Wylie Chapel in Joliet for Peter J. Reiter, one of Homer Township's oldest natives, who died Wednesday, June 20, at Silver Cross Hospital following a two-week illness. He was thought to be about ready to return to his home, but suffered a paralytic stroke Tuesday night which proved fatal.

Born, Aug. 19, 1872, he was the son of the late Peter and Helen Reiter. He moved from his parents' home on Parker Rd. at the time of his marriage and has farmed in this area ever since.

His wife, Inez (nee Legg), died in March of this year. A son, LaVerne, also preceded him in death several years ago, as did several brothers and sisters.

Surviving are five daughters: Mrs. Helen Dempsy of Joliet; Mrs. Arthur (Ethel) Eisenbrandt and Mrs. Harlan (Grace) Eisenbrandt, both of Frankfort; Mrs. George (Alfreda) Geuther of Lockport; and Mrs. Donald (Vera) Peterson of St. Petersburg, Fla.; 13 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. J. Stanley Cox officiated at the services, with burial in Hills of Rest Cemetery.

Harvey H. Thormahlen, late of New Lenox, and a one-time resident of Homer Twp., died Monday, June 18, at Hines Veterans Hospital after a long illness. Burial was at Oakridge Cemetery, Hillside, Ill., Wednesday afternoon. He is survived by his mother, Evelyn (nee Kreuger), and one son, Donald. His father and a sister, Emily, preceded him in death.

The family lived on the present Walter Kolar farm many years ago, and he attended Wells Corner School.

Mrs. Emmerson Reed, a former Homer resident who now lives south of Joliet, underwent surgery at Silver Cross Hospital last Friday.

David Frazer of Detroit, visited in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Frazer on Farrell Rd. last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burnworth, Bruce Rd., made a weekend trip to Sidell where they visited her mother and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Rowley and three sons, Bruce, Russell and Scot, of Lake Charles, La., arrived at the Willard Rowley home last Wednesday, June 13, and have been guests of relatives in Chicago, Lockport and here. The Ray Carlsons held open house for relatives in their honor Friday evening. They left for home on Monday of this week.

Kenneth Cox of Chicago was a weekend guest at Homer church parsonage June 16-17.

The King's Daughters' meeting in the J. J. Paddock home on Thursday was a reunion of old friends, as Mrs. Isabelle Francis, Mrs. Iola Storm and Mrs. Ray Carlson, Mrs. R.C. Storm, all of whom had not been able to attend a meeting for some time were present, and all were happy to find Mrs. F. J. Paddock much improved in health.

The annual election of officers was held, with the former officers all being re-elected. President: Mrs. Ira Anderson, secretary: Mrs. L.E. Storm, vice president: Mrs. Don Aspel, treasurer: Mrs. Jerome Paddock and Mrs. Storm are the finance committee; Mrs. Wm. Mergler, Indian war chairman; Mrs. John Hollister, "Around the World" chairman, and Mrs. Robert Shepherd Sr., delegate.

The next meeting will be a picnic dinner on July 12, the place to be announced later. Plans were discussed for a Bridal Revue to be sponsored by the society at a later date.

It Will Be Nicklaus Vs Palmer In Western Open

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer will resume their friendly but dramatic golfing feud next week in the 59th Western Open championship at Medinah Country Club.

Nicklaus, the newly crowned National Open champion, joins Palmer, the defending Western Open champion, as co-favorites when the firing starts Thursday on the rugged No. 3 course at Medinah Country Club.

They head an impressive list of entrants announced today by the Western Golf Association, sponsor of the Western Open. In the field will be all 30 of the top 39 money winners on the pro circuit this year. They also include the first 12 finishers in the recent National Open.

Having just decided Palmer in their playoff for the National Open title, Nicklaus has his sights on wresting the Western Open crown away from Palmer, who topped the 1961 parade at Blythe Field Country Club in Grand Rapids.

This will mark Nicklaus' competitive debut as the new national champion. The 22-year-old power hitter from Columbus has dropped off the circuit for a one-week rest before returning to action in the Western Open.

Nicklaus will be making his second appearance in a Western Open. He competed in the 1959 championship at the Pittsburgh Field Club, and was the low amateur.

If Nicklaus could add the Western Open to his collection, he would become the first player in 52 years to hold both the Western Open and the Western Amateur crowns at the same time. Chick Evans last did it in 1910. Nicklaus won the 1961 Western Amateur in New Orleans and the 1962 Amateur will not be played until next month.

Palmer will be competing in his sixth Western Open. In 1955, his first season as a pro, he tied for 16th; in 1957 he failed to survive the 36-hole cut, and in 1958 he tied for seventh.

The last two trips saw Palmer a leading contender for the start. He lost the 1959 event by a single stroke to Souchak, missing a 23-inch putt on the final green which would have forced a playoff. In 1961 Palmer led or shared the lead in every round, eventually nipping Sam Snead by two strokes at the finish.

The 12 leading finishers in the National Open, all of whom will play in the Western Open, were Nicklaus, Palmer, Phil Rodgers, Bobby Nichols, Gay

Brewer, Gary Player, Tommy Jacobs, Gene Littler, Billy Maxwell, Doug Ford, Art Wall and Doug Sanders.

Among the other top touring pros on the 1962 money list entered at Medinah are Billy Casper, Dow Finsterwald, Bob Rosburg, Bruce Crampton, Bob Goalby, Mike Souchak, Dave Ragan, Jay Hebert, Lionel Hebert, Johnny Pott, Joe Campbell, Don January and George Bayer.

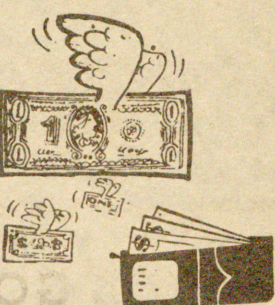

In fact, the field will contain the winners of all 24 tournaments held on the PGA circuit this year with but one exception — Bo Wininger, who captured the New Orleans Open in one of his few tournament appearances.

Five thousand visitors attend the Azalea Trail Festival in Mobile, Ala., each year.

VACATIONING By Automobile

COMPACT AND CONVENIENT -- If you plan to camp out on your motoring vacation this summer, or if you only want to save some money at mealtime, a portable kitchen is a fine answer to your problem. Here you can see how a typical meal-time set-up works. And as mothers well know, food seems to taste a whole lot better when it's cooked outdoors.

EDITORIAL

Travel Safely The 4th

Will the Fourth of July leave you with pleasant memories of a holiday well spent, unmarked by accidents and injuries to you and your loved ones?

Children love the loud cracking and sputtering of fireworks and many parents, even through illegal purchase, will place these unpredictable and dangerous gadgets in the hands of their youngsters. Regret and grief do not compensate for the loss of eyes or fingers, severe burns, or even loss of life.

It is difficult for a child to heed a parent's warning to be careful when natural curiosity is to explore the firecracker that lies silent on the ground. Nor is it possible for the child to understand that the pretty sparkler will do anything more than be beautiful in its dancing lights while clutched in a hand.

Plan for a safe and sane Independence Day celebration. Every neighborhood arranges a public display of gayly colored lights and fireworks, outings, and public entertainments. Take your child to one of these and let him enjoy to the utmost the beauty and excitement.

If an automobile trip is desired, lay out a schedule that requires no high speed driving to get there and back within the time available.

Unfortunately, many people have the idea that they are the only good drivers on the road and are thus inclined to become careless. They will take chances which lead to accidents. This is true especially in the hours when the roads are crowded with travelers going away from home or returning, when a slow pace often becomes irksome. Don't mix gasoline and alcohol at any time.

If the day is being spent on or near a lake or stream, precautions should be taken to prevent a tragedy. Even the best swimmers should not get too far away from possible help if they should tire or get a cramp. Obviously, the inexperienced swimmer should not get beyond his depth. Don't overload a boat, or move about in one. Check local boating regulations designed for safe operation of boats.

On a trip to the woods, be on the lookout for poisonous weeds. These can spoil an otherwise pleasant holiday. Likewise, be careful of overexposure to the sun.

Adherence to these and other simple rules of conduct -- including consideration of the other fellow -- will help make the "Fourth" a day of happy memories. Happy holiday to everyone!

Check Your House Before You Leave

Don't leave valuables in the house. A safe deposit box for jewelry and securities an insured storage for furs will relieve your mind of this care. It is futile to lock bureau and dresser drawers as the result will be loss of property and damaged furniture.

Don't just leave without telling anyone at all. Tell the police and keep someone back home advised of your whereabouts--but remember, burglars read the society columns with avid interest, so inform the editor of your vacation after you have returned. It's still news and safer for you.

Let the house or apartment retain a lived-in look. Don't draw shades and don't allow newspapers, circulars, milk bottles, etc. to accumulate. Terminate such services and ask a friend or neighbor to watch for and keep or forward your mail. Arrange to have your lawn mowed when necessary during your absence. To the experienced burglar, neglected lawn on an otherwise well-kept plot usually means one of two things: Either the family is away on a trip or the man of the house is out of town on business.

The most secure type of lock is a double cylinder deadlock. Don't forget to lock dumbwaiter and service doors. Keep ladders locked up and second story windows as securely locked as those on the first floor.

Burglar know all the favorite places people use to hid keys so give spare house and car keys to a member of the family.

Fires and burglars leave no inventories behind them so keep an up-to-date inventory of your furniture, personal property and valuable in your safe deposit box.

Turn all lights off, disconnect all appliances and extensions and be sure all gas jets are off.

Driving Under Special Conditions

Desert Driving

Hot dry conditions and wide open spaces induce drowsiness, and long flat stretches play tricks on the eyes. Moderate speed, additional allowances for passing and a refresher break occasionally, will make the trip safer and more enjoyable.

Avoid the chance of running short of gasoline, oil or water on a desert stretch by checking on fueling stations.

Always have the water level checked in the radiator and battery at each stop.

Allow a generous safety factor and carry a spare five gallons of water.

Don't try tricks with tire pressures for heat or traction reasons. Keep tires inflated to the manufacturers' recommended pressure--no more, no less.

Hot Weather

To avoid overheating the engine while idling in heavy stop-and-go traffic, place the transmission in neutral and race the engine several times for 30 seconds at two-minute intervals.

Ventilating systems which draw fresh air from the front of the car should not be used in close or heavy traffic since dangerous carbon monoxide fumes may be drawn in.

Keep your car radio tuned to local stations for advance warnings of any unusual storms. In any kind of violent storm, stay off the road if possible until it blows over. If you're traveling in low-lying areas when a big storm breaks, drive to high ground and look for shelter. Keep away from railroad underpasses.

In the Mountains

Most principal routes are marked to control passing. Usually a solid line on your side means "no passing" while the broken line permits passing if it is safe to do so. These markings are determined by engineering methods. They are much more reliable than any on-the-spot judgments so should be scrupulously observed.

Be careful on dips and near brows of hills because compact cars and low silhouette cars are not as quickly visible as larger cars. Steep hills should be descended in second or low gear with the brake used as a snubber. This method keeps the car under control and reduces brake wear. Many states prohibit coasting and free wheeling. To down-shift automatic transmissions for braking effect on steep grades, follow instructions issued by manufacturer.

Take no chances with curves on unfamiliar highways. They may be sharper than they look and many may not be "banked" or super elevated.

Fire Prevention On The Highway

The ignition should be turned off when refueling and at no time should smoking or matches be permitted in the vicinity of the gas tank, motor, radiator, fill pipe or battery.

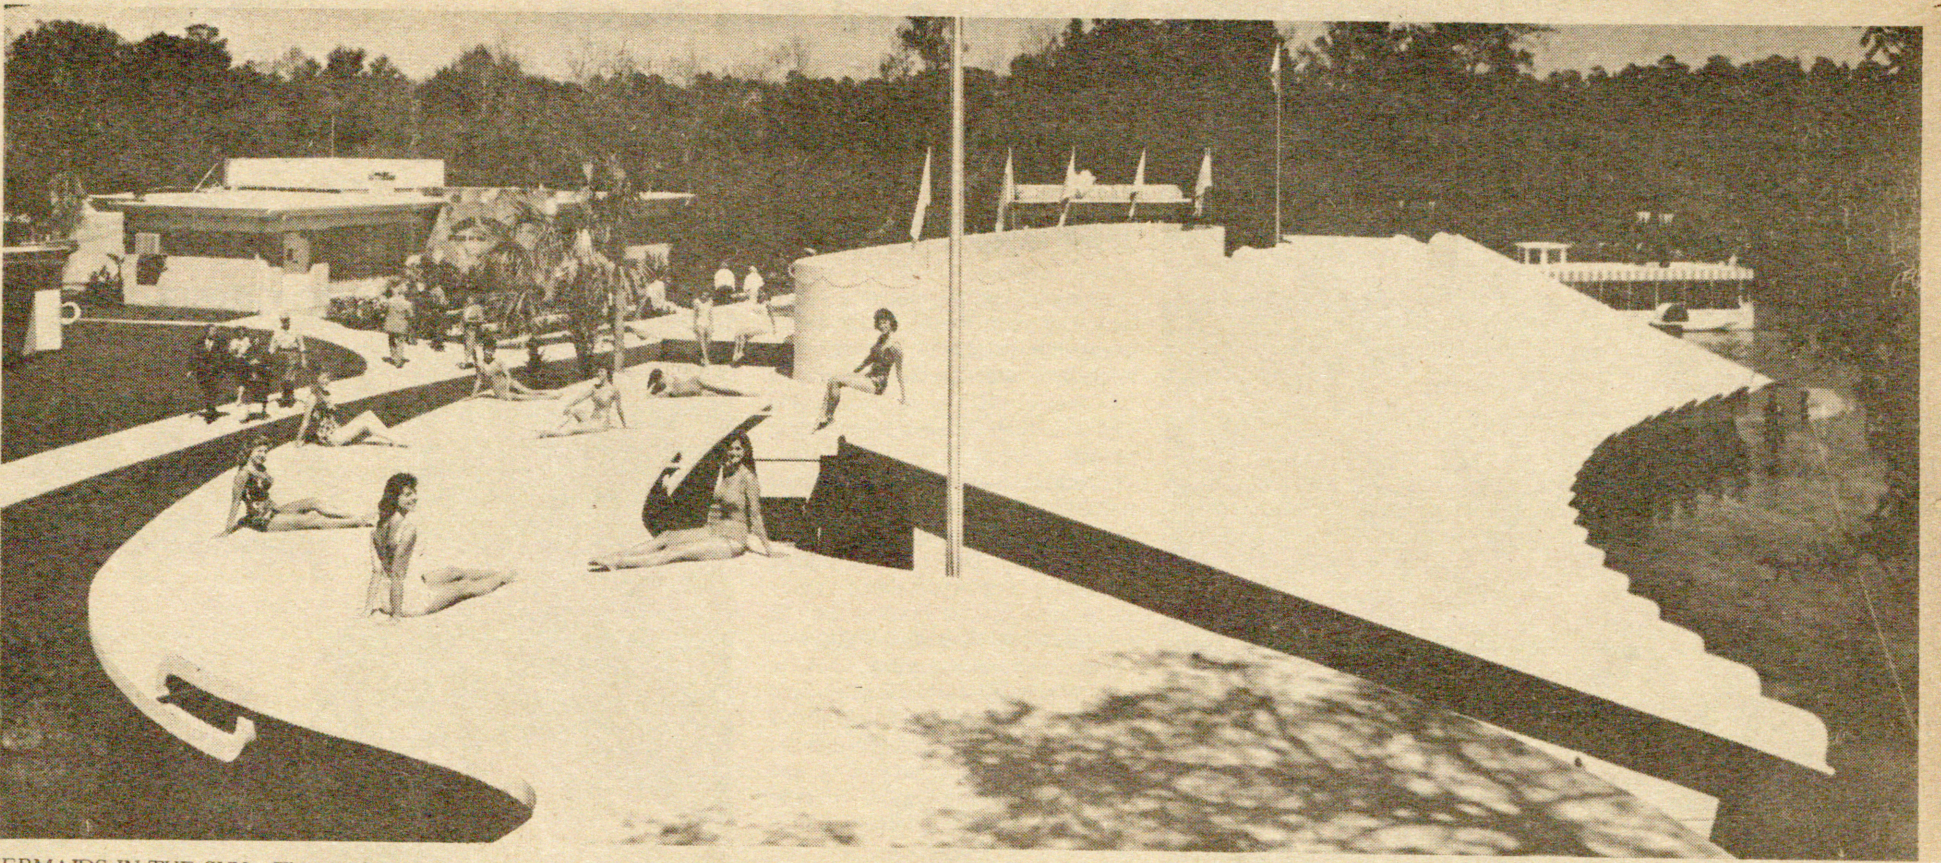

Keep a constant alert for gas leaks, loose or broken gaskets, leaky exhaust or muffler and defective wiring, and have repairs made at once. Cigarette and cigar butts, pipe ashes and hot matches should never be thrown from the car. If they do not blow back into the rear, they may start a brush or forest fire. Use the ashtrays and empty them frequently in a safe place.

Turn off the ignition immediately after an accident--no matter how slight. If possible, cut it if an accident seems imminent. A racing engine with a jammed accelerator or shorted wires can cause fire.

On Our Cover

The vacation-bound family on our cover this week are the Bob Ottos of 22 Logan St., Lemont. Behind the wheel is Bob's wife Edna while Karen (7) checks stationowner, Shorty Roberts, on the gas tank filling. Looking over the boat which will join them on their tour are Stephen (16) and Nancy (12). Bob gets some final tips on the trip from Charles Fulk of the Pure station staff. Otto is also well known in Lockport as the owner of the Lockport Flower Shop.

MERMAIDS IN THE SUN--The world-famous Weeki Wachee Mermaids pose atop their million dollar underwater theatre in Florida's "Mermaid Spring"

At Weeki Wachee, Fla.

These Mermaids Stay Underwater 45 Minutes

There are thousands of interesting and exciting places to visit during your vacation by automobile and each has its unique appeal. Travelers in Florida are invariably attracted to one of the truly "different" vacation spots -- Weeki Wachee Springs -- where they can see a bevy of beautiful young ladies who are actually called "Mermaids".

Down . . . down . . . down . . . she goes until she reaches the 117 1/2 foot mark where her air hose is pulled from her grasp. Now she's left with no air supply -- the pressure against her body is 60 pounds per square inch! She begins to ascend, slowly at first, and exhaling as she rises. If she fails to equalize the pressure on her body, she could easily fall victim of "the bends" the paralysis of the deep!

This is just one of the unbelievable tasks accomplished by the "Beauties of the Deep" at the famous Weeki Wachee Spring in Florida -- an underwater fairyland of beautiful live Mermaids, make believe dragons and mysterious sea shells.

It takes a girl of exceptional ability and perfect health to be able to perform the many routines expected of her at this unique attraction on Florida's West Coast. The show lasts about 45 minutes, and not once during this time does a Mermaid take a breath of surface air! The performance is strenuous and a girl is allowed to do only three shows a day.

While they make it look easy, the Mermaids must undergo highly specialized training and long hours of daily practice before they are capable of doing a show before a live audience.

A fascinating part of the underwater spectacle is the fact that most of these girls are mere youngsters just out of high school! After a girl has been accepted, she begins to learn difficult acrobatic maneuvers; to feed fish from her hands; eat and drink while submerged; and perform other crowd-pleasing tricks.

To qualify for the highly sought after position of a Weeki Wachee Mermaid, a girl must be athletic, graceful, and have no fear of water. Surprisingly, she needn't be an expert swimmer. The act mainly requires training in breath control and underwater rhythm. . . with very little conventional swimming. A girl normally serves a three-to-six month apprenticeship with experienced Mermaids before joining a permanent team.

Weeki Wachee (pronounced week-ee watch-ee) was the name given this amazing spring by Florida's Seminole Indians centuries ago. It means "winding waters," a name undoubtedly suggested by the winding course of the Weeki Wachee River which the spring feeds.

Visitors watch the unusual show from the new underwater aqua theatre. It is of the most modern design, air conditioned for perfect comfort the year round, and provides living-room comfort for more than 500 persons. A panoramic view of the crystal clear spring is made possible by the 90 feet of plate glass windows 2 1/2 inches thick.

While technically accurate, the word "spring" is misleading. This is really the surfacing point for powerful underground river. It pumps forth water at the fantastic rate of 165 million gallons daily. And while no one can quite explain the phenomenon, the water is always at a constant ideal swimming temperature of 74.2 degrees.

Through the years, the surging spring has carved out a funnel shaped chasm nearly 100 feet across at the top and 137 feet deep. This forms the arena where the Mermaids present the most unusual underwater performance in the world. The spring's tremendous depth, incidentally, provides the setting for the startling climax at which time a Mermaid deep-dives 117 1/2 feet into the narrow gorge with only the aid of a face mask and flippers.

Being a Mermaid at Weeki Wachee, Fla., is a glamorous and rewarding career for these young women athletes, but only girls who are willing to practice diligently are able to perform three times each day -- six days a week. If you doubt the physical fitness necessary to become a Mermaid, try holding your breath for three minutes!

Before You Leave Check All Your Family Needs

If you carry food for snacks or light meals on the road, take as many nonperishables as possible. Canned goods, powdered instant beverages, hard candies and fresh fruits such as apples and oranges are durable and travelworthy. Remember necessary utensils, an important one of which is a litter bag.

Concentrating on easily laundered seersuckers or members of the nylon family for shirts, blouses, nightwear and undergarments is sensible and space saving.

When loading the luggage compartment, a good rule to remember is "last things go in first and first things go in last." Articles to be used frequently or in an emergency, such as tire-changing tools or first aid kit, should be readily accessible. This will save you the trouble of having to unload the entire luggage compartment to get at them.

If the youngsters are to ride in the back seat of a four door sedan, see your mechanic about an interlock or another method of protecting against accidental opening of the doors. Car sickness may be a problem with the children. Ask your doctor for a good motion-sickness preventive to give them. It might be wise to take along a supply of oil treated bags.

New Swim Suits Promise Interesting Vacation Sights

Although taking your vacation by car this year means lots of driving before you get to your favorite spot, the bathing suit stylists tell us there will be some interesting sights to look forward to when you arrive.

Leading swimsuit designers across the nation have big news for lady sun-worshippers. In a reversal of last year's bare-minimum beachwear, there's going to be less of you in view for '62 -- and more left to the imagination.

Not that we're going back to knee-length bloomers and long sleeved middies! The '62 swimsuits are brief enough to allow for active swimming and even tanning, but they're covered enough to look ladylike, demure, and very, very feminine.

It all started in the bastion of pace-setting swimwear, Miami Beach. In the first resort collections, one-piece suits, especially maillots in new knitted fabrics of Creslan acrylic fiber, set the style.

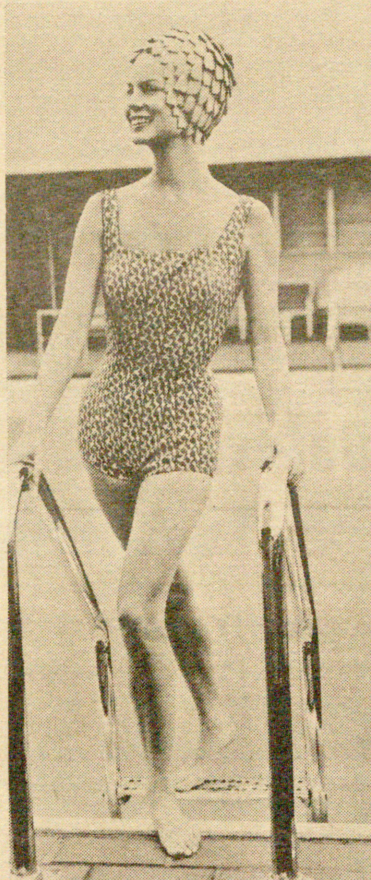

These knits are ideal for the covered-up swimwear. They're light in weight and comfortable, and promise to keep their beautiful shape -- and the shapes beautiful. This beachwear also blooms with a marine-gardenful of colors that won't wash out with the tide.

The Florida collection emphasizes the happiness of the marriage of knits to '62 styling. One delightful maillot is printed in a splash of South-Sea colors. The ever-popular two-piece bathing suit takes on the new look, too. The star witness: a figure-following (but not figure-hugging) two-piecer, screen printed with beach-blooming flowers in high voltage colors.

A chic ribbed suit displays little boy legs and beguiling baby sleeves. Chemiserie makes news in a tiny-waisted suit with elasticized waistband and tie belt. There is a superbly flattering maillot with square neckline, built-up shoulders, and the surprise of a fathoms-deep back. Sculptured knits lend dimension to tailored sheath suits that follow the figure, but at a respectful distance.

Hard on the heels of the Florida stylists came designers from all over the country, with collections of the new body-conscious-but-less-bare swimwear. In California, another stronghold of the sun-lovers, creamy double-knits appear in ultra-feminine beachwear. One bathing beauty has a brief pleated skirt flowing from a long-torsoed bodice which can be sashed or not. Tangy citrus colors are striped with crisp white for a cool, airy look.

An ensemble in the same striped knit combines a two-piece suit with a matching cover-up beach shift. The hipline of the suit and the shoulder closing of the beach shift are studded with perky buttons.

From Michigan, the land of sky blue waters, comes a swim-wear collection featuring a marvelous new challis. This airy-light fabric in a neat madallion print has been fashioned into a boy-leg dress-maker suit with gently scooped neck. A matching long-sleeved beach jacket reflects the ensemble look in '62 beachwear.

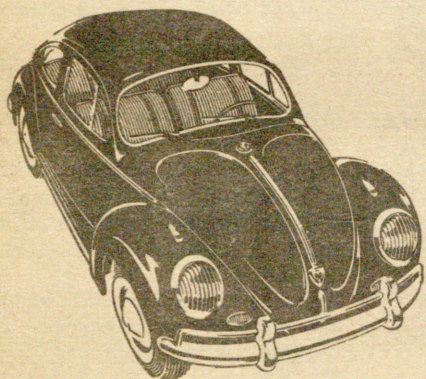

Moving further east, we find several firms styling new-looking knitted swimwear for the younger set. Richly textured knits in fresh young colors star in summer collections for pre-teen sizes.

Everywhere you look this summer, you'll find this feminine beachwear styled with verve. The new covered-up look makes good figuring for a summer full of sun and sea.

BARE VS COVER-UP LOOK--The figure-hugging two piecer is styled in a hand screened floral print. The small waisted chemise suit is a real eye-catcher in Carib blue, chartreuse or paprika. Both by Alix of Miami.

Tips On Traveling Outside The USA

If you contemplate visiting either of our good neighbors, Mexico or Canada, you will find the welcome carpet rolled out with the warmest of hospitality, but a few simple preparations are necessary.

In either case, carry proof of citizenship for all adult members of the party. This is to gain re-entry to the U.S. without delay. Native-born U.S. citizens should carry identifying papers such as birth, baptismal or voter's certificate. Naturalized citizens must have their naturalization certificates or United States passport. Documentary evidence is not always called for but it can be demanded so it's best to be on the safe side.

No passport is required in either case but Mexico has special regulations to be observed.

Each adult visitor to Mexico must carry a tourist card, good for six months, and available at a small fee from immigration authorities at the border or from Mexican consulates in the United States. It is suggested these be obtained before departure from home if possible, as certificates of recent vaccination may be required. Smallpox vaccination certificates are necessary, both for entry to Mexico and for return to the U.S.

A permit for the car and a separate permit for a trailer is required by the Mexican government; these can be obtained free charge at port of entry. In Canada a traveller's vehicle permit, good for any period up to six months, should be obtained from Customs at port of entry. No fee is charged. Trailers do not require a separate permit.

Car registration card must be carried in both Canada and Mexico.

There are no restrictions on cameras in either Canada or Mexico, although there are restrictions on the amount of film which may be brought in. A total of six rolls of film and 12 flash bulbs per person may be brought into Canada and 12 rolls of film into Mexico. However, stores in both countries are well supplied with film of all sizes, both black and white and color. Foreign made cameras along with other valuable articles of foreign make should be registered with United States Customs at the border.

LIST VALUABLES

In Canada cameras, along with outboard motors, guns and other sporting equipment, should be listed in advance with the description and serial numbers noted. All such articles must be identified and reported outwards within six months of their entry. Revolvers, pistols and fully automatic firearms are prohibited in Canada.

In both countries the necessary wearing apparel and personal effects in use by the visitor can be admitted free of duty. However, free entry of tobacco and alcoholic beverages is limited--in Canada, up to 50 cigars, 200 cigarettes (one carton) and two pounds of tobacco; 40 ounces of alcoholic beverages; in Mexico two and two-tenths pounds of tobacco (four cartons of cigarettes), and two quarts of alcoholic beverages per adult.

Motorists are reminded that the Imperial gallon measure sold in Canada is one-fifth larger than the U.S. gallon--and so when in Canada, fewer gallons are needed to fill fuel tanks. In Mexico, gas is sold by the litre, which is a little over a quart in U.S. measurement. To fill an 18 gallon gas tank in Mexico, about 68 1/2 litres of gas would be needed.

The standard automobile insurance of most major companies covers throughout Canada as well as in the United States. It does not provide coverage for travel in Mexico.

For insurance protection while traveling in Mexico, South American and European countries by automobile, see your insurance man to find out what arrangements can be made.

Prepare Your Car In Advance For Your Trip

The extent of preparations necessary to place your car in proper condition for a safe and trouble-free trip depends largely on the age of the car and the degree of preventive maintenance service it has received in the past.

For the ordinary "short" trip of a few 100 miles in more or less familiar territory, the average car owner is content to leave the servicing of his car for such a trip to the discretion of his neighborhood service station, and normally, an oil change, lubrication job, and checking of the tire pressures and the water level in the battery and radiator constitute the extent of this service work.

An extended trip, and particularly one which will take the motorist through desert or mountain country or sparsely populated areas, calls for more careful checking and servicing of the car.

However long the trip, proper car conditioning is a must if any amount of driving is to be done on expressways where high speeds can be maintained for long distances. In this case we suggest you give careful consideration to all the check points on the list. They can help in providing greater assurance of safety, increased economy in vehicle operation and more pleasure in driving.

Remember too, a mechanically perfect car is still only as good as its driver. Correct spark-plug timing can save gas, but to no avail if the driver races the engine when it is cold. Headlamps may be in top condition mechanically, but a thick film of dirt on the lenses can cut their illumination as much as one-third. A good driver will keep his car's headlamps wiped clean to insure maximum performance and safety.

How To Read A Road Map

You will probably do 60 percent of your 1962 driving on vacation during the spring and summer months--traveling well beyond familiar stretches of road. To get where you are headed fast, map your trip first!

A little advance planning with a road atlas can save both time and tempers in making certain that you get the best highway route whether you want speed or a leisurely sight-seeing trip.

First, however, you must know how to read a road map correctly. Road maps and atlases are the most widely-used travel guides in existence. But few motorists, map makers say, actually know how to use them adequately.

The best way to avoid frayed tempers and wrong turns next vacation is to heed these five tips on road map usage provided by Ingvald Gimse of Rand McNally & Company. Gimse is a veteran of more than 30 years of road map making as editor of Rand McNally's Road Atlas.

1. STUDY THE LEGEND. This explanation of the markings and symbols on maps is the most important single key to using a road map. It provides more than 40 different classifications of information ranging from distinctions between different types of roads as marked on the maps to such fine points as locations of springs and wells. These are marked by lines and symbols which can be understood only by studying the legend.

Often, Gimse says, questions motorists ask indicate they do not know the legend exists. Every road map or atlas will have one and the symbols used will vary from one publisher to another.

bers.

Another method is to lay a piece of paper along the route and make a penciled "tic" mark along the edge of the paper for each section of highway. The total distance for your route will then be the distance from the first tic mark to the last.

By holding the paper up to the scale of miles on the atlas map you can calculate the total number of miles. This will be less accurate than using mileage figures but is easier where an approximation of the distance is sufficient.

3. HOW TO USE SPECIAL maps. Large scale inset maps of major cities, if consulted in advance and oriented with the smaller scale state map in planning a route through or around the city, can save both time and tempers. They will also help locate points of interest to visit or resting areas such as parks and playgrounds.

There may also be many other types of helpful specialty maps showing specific areas on an enlarged scale on any road map and particularly in an atlas.

4. HOW TO USE INDEX. In locating a specific place, look for it in the index listing or for another, larger town nearby if it is too small to be listed.

The letter-number coordinates (for example, K-7) for the city in the index correspond to the letters on the side margins of the map and the numbers at top and bottom.

This is the point where most people go wrong. Don't draw a line down from the number and one across from the letter and expect to find the place you are looking for at the point where they meet.

Instead, find the small diamond-shaped symbols on the margin halfway between your letter "K" and the "J" above it and the "L" below it. Draw a lightly penciled line across from each of these two markings. Repeat this for your number coordinate. You now have four lines marking off a square within which you will find the place you are looking for.

With these lines as guides for your eye you should find the specific town easily and quickly.

5. KEEP UP TO DATE. First, throw away all those treasured old maps and atlases cluttering up the car--or at least don't use them. The more than 10,000 changes made in the Rand McNally Road Atlas to bring the current edition up to date illustrate the pace at which map data changes.

The road atlas carries the date of publication as part of the copyright notice on an inside page. This makes it easy to tell how current it is once you know what to look for. It is revised at least once a year to keep it completely up to date. Be sure you have the newest edition.

Most individual road maps obtained through service stations, however, carry no publication date. While they are often reprinted more than once a year, it is wise to check how recent the one you have may be.

Look for specific items such as recent road construction, a re-routed highway or some other detail in an area with which you are familiar. If there is a section of expressway opened to traffic a year or more ago and it isn't shown, the map is not up to date enough to rely upon.

Now that you know how to go about it, sit down and plan that vacation right now -- and happy motoring!

Use Wicks For Watering Plants During Vacation

Wick-watering may help your house plants fend for themselves when you're away on vacation this summer--if you can't get someone to water them in your absence.

University of Illinois floriculturist G.M. Fosler suggests setting up the wick-watering system several weeks before you plan to leave, just to be sure it works. Here's how to do it:

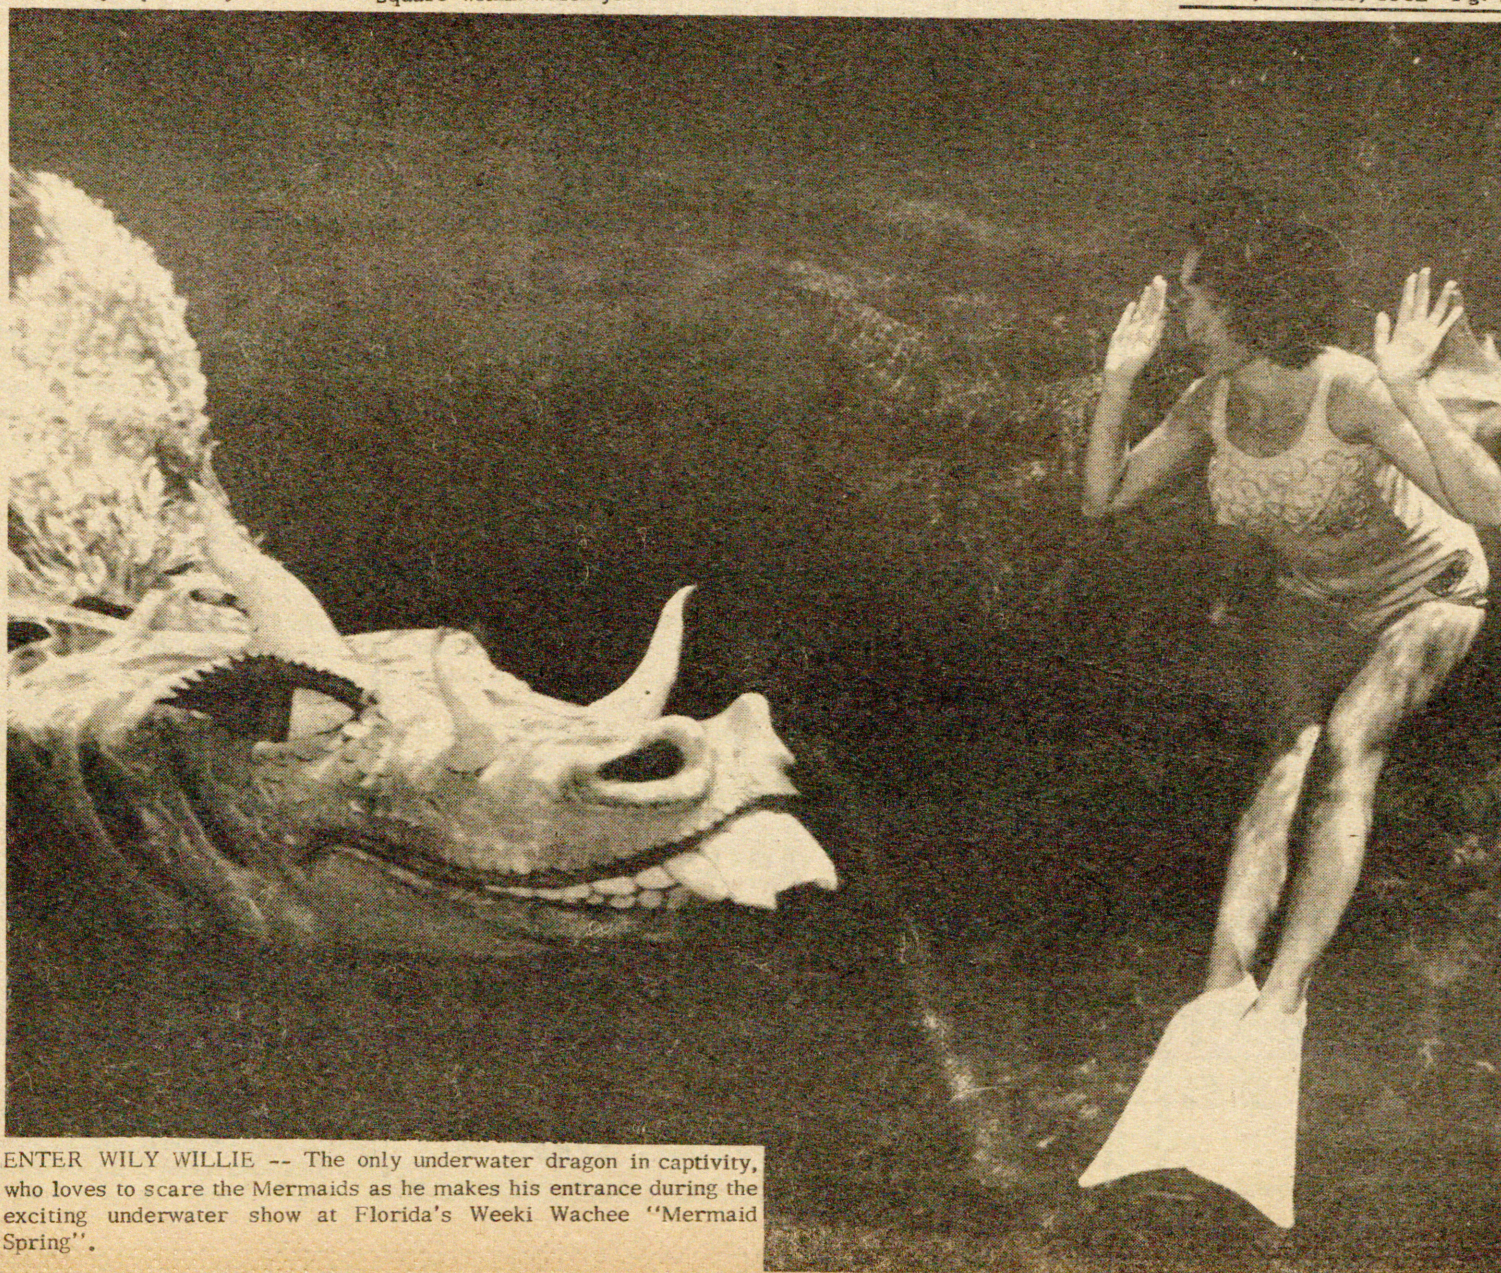

First, water all plants thoroughly. Submerge the pots up to the rims in tepid water for 15 to 20 minutes, and syringe all foliage except the hairy-leaved types.

Then set all pots around a large container of water. The container should be level with or preferably higher than the pots. Or you can use several individual quart bottles of water. Use only water that has not gone through a home-type water softener.

To convey the water from the container to the plants, use lengths of cotton wicking or clothesline (with sizing removed). Cover the middle section of each wick strip with aluminum foil to prevent excessive evaporation.

Insert one end of the strip in the water and the other end in the soil of each pot. A two-week supply is about one quart of water for two six-inch pots.

Putting each plant into a polyethylene bag will also help to conserve soil moisture while you are away. Don't completely seal the bags--allow for some air movement. Keep the bagged plants in bright light, but never in direct sunlight.

ENTER WILY WILLIE -- The only underwater dragon in captivity, who loves to scare the Mermaids as he makes his entrance during the exciting underwater show at Florida's Weeki Wachee "Mermaid Spring".

728 Miles To Springfield And Back Is Historical, Scenic And Enjoyable

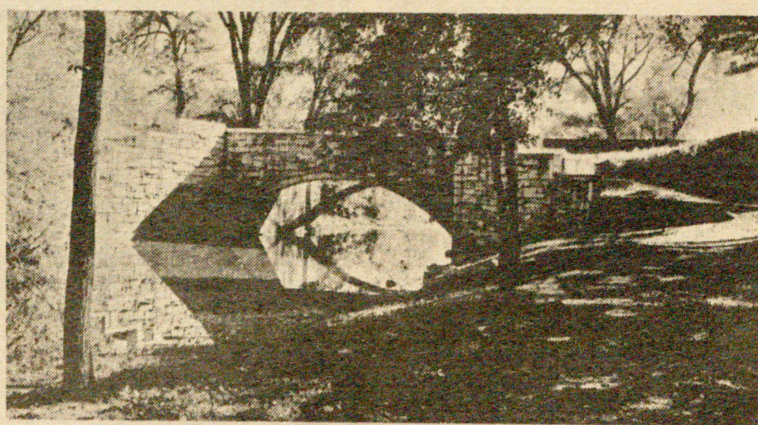

If you'd like to take an interesting tour of your home state there are many sights to see between here and Springfield. If you want to make it over a long weekend the 728 mile trip will be pleasant and enjoyable.

Begin this tour by taking U.S. 66 to the point where it intersects U.S. 6 near Channahon. Close by is Channahon Parkway State Park with the old Illinois and Michigan Canal locks and nearby the enchanting Towpath Drive which connects Channahon and Morris.

At Morris is Gebhard Woods State Park. U.S. 6 continues to Marseilles, across from Illini State Park.

Next stop on U.S. 6 is Ottawa and Buffalo Rock State Park. At Ottawa the river is crossed on Illinois 71, which continues to Starved Rock State Park. Two miles south, on Illinois 178, is Matthiessen State Park.

From Peru the tourist can continue on U.S. 6 and turn south on Illinois 78, or turn south on Illinois 29 for a beautiful, twisting drive below the bluffs of the Illinois

NEAR MORRIS -- Aqueduct over Nettle Creek at Gebhard Woods State Park

River to Peoria.

If Illinois 78 is chosen, a left turn between Annawan and Kewanee leads to Johnson Sauk Trail State Park. West and south of Kewanee off U.S. 34 is Bishop Hill State Memorial. Below Laura, 78 joins U.S. 150, followed six miles before a left turn is made to Jubilee College State Memorial.

If Illinois 29 is taken, it will be necessary to drive an extra 15 miles to see Jubilee College.

Near Peoria are two state parks and another memorial. The memorial is the Metamora Court House 15 miles northeast on Illinois 116. The parks are both on the other side of the river.

Off Illinois 29 is Ft. Creve Coeur State Park, site of the first French fort in the state. Following south on 29, a mile south of Pekin, the tour makes a right turn toward Powerton and follows a country road to Spring Lake State Park. This long narrow lake is famous for its fishing and the park offers family type recreation.

Adjoining the park on the south is the Mason State Forest. Remaining on good country roads, one comes to the Mason State Tree Nursery, a short distance north of U. S. 136.

U. S. 136 taken west goes to Havana where Illinois 78 continues on to Dickson Mounds State Memorial. Also near Havana are Anderson Lake, Rice Lake and Sangamo Conservation areas, offering excellent fishing and waterfowl shooting.

South of Havana on Illinois 97 is Lincoln's New Salem State Park and at Springfield are the Lincoln Home and the Lincoln Tomb State Memorials. This is the center of the Lincoln Country and there are other memorials and parks to see.

North of Springfield on U. S. 66 at Lincoln is the Postville Court House and 11 miles southeast of Lincoln on Illinois 121 is the Mt. Pulaski Court House.

From Mt. Pulaski a good black-top road goes south to U.S. 36, and a short distance east and south is Lincoln Trail Homestead State Park, first Illinois home of the Lincoln family.

Going on to Decatur, the traveler has the choice of visiting several parks and memorials. North on U.S. 51, three miles from Clinton, is Weldon Springs State Park. On Illinois 105, thirty miles east, is Bryant Cottage State Memorial.

About eight miles south of Decatur on Illinois 121 the traveler reaches Spitzer Woods State Park. Continuing on to Mattoon, Illinois 16 is taken a few miles east, and a right turn is made to the Lincoln Log Cabin State Park, the Shiloh Cemetery and the Moore Home State Memorial. Another country road leads to Charleston, from where Illinois 130 runs south to Fox Ridge State Park.

From the park, 130 may be driven south to U.S. 40, where a left turn is made to Marshall. Three miles south of Marshall is Lincoln Trail State Park, another of the fine lake areas, where the Lincolns passed on their way into Illinois. From Marshall, Illinois 1 and U.S. 150 are taken north to Danville.

A few miles west, on Interstate 74, is Kickapoo State Park. Further west are Champaign and Urbana, home of the University of Illinois. At Urbana, U.S. 45 goes north to Kankakee where one may visit the Len Small State Memorial.

Eight miles northwest on Route 102, is Kankakee River State Park.

What To Do In Case Of Fire

If smoke is seen or smelled, or a flame observed, above all, keep calm. If in motion, drive completely off the traveled portion of the road, stop, turn off ignition, unload your passengers and have those who cannot help retire to a safe distance--at least 50 feet away.

If in town, send someone to turn in an alarm.

If there is fire in the vicinity of the gasoline tank, do not approach it. Never use water on any motor, electrical or gasoline fire. This is a job for a chemical extinguisher, sand, dirt or a blanket. After the fire is out, have the trouble located and corrected before you try to start the car or you may have another fire.

AND - Always carry a fire extinguisher.

Emergency Equipment You Can Use

Items for emergencies:

Trouble light that can be plugged into the cigarette lighter receptacle. Get one with a magnetic base that will adhere to any metal surface, thus leaving both hands free to work.

Folding shovel.

Tire chains advisable if winter weather is anticipated.

Spare fan belt.

Jack and tools--include a good screw driver and pliers; also a set of combination box and open end wrenches (sizes 1/4", 1/2", 9/16" and 3/4"). A fellow motorist may be able to render assistance if proper tools are available.

Tow rope or chain.

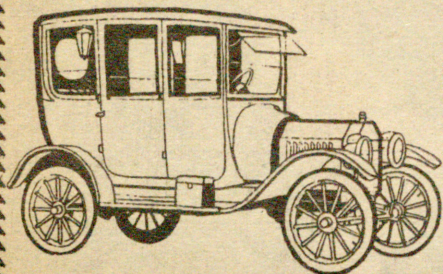

A readily accessible fire extinguisher.

A first aid kit. Be sure that the contents are not stale or dried out.

IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

Your first concern in event of accident is for any person who may be injured.

Unless it is essential to avoid further injury do not attempt to move a seriously injured or unconscious person; to do so may cause more serious complications.

Travel Tips

Plan Your Trip Ahead And Travel With Peace Of Mind

While an extended motor trip is no longer the adventure it was in the day of goggles and linen dusters, it is still an important undertaking, and careful planning and preparation is the best insurance for success.

There is a lot of fun and satisfaction in planning a trip. The whole family will enjoy poring over the road maps, studying, reading of, and anticipating the places to be visited, the sights to be seen and the sports to be enjoyed.

So, before you go, allow ample time to have the family car safety-checked for all the vital items. By doing this you may avoid delays, disappointment and possibly disaster.

To help free your mind of worry during your absence, make certain that your home and its contents are properly insured and your automobile liability policies have adequate limits to cover you should you have an accident.

OTHER HELPFUL HINTS

Here are a few other precautions you can take to help make your trip a safe and pleasant one:

See your family doctor for a medical checkup if you haven't

Night Driving Is Special Art

According to research many motor vehicle accidents are caused by fatigue. Long hours of driving at night can easily make a driver tired. When headaches strained eyes, stiff muscles occur, a wise driver will stop and rest.

If your trip is planned for leisurely comfort, and it should be, avoid evening and night driving as far as possible.

Better and more certain accommodations can be had, you will get more rest and avoid the most dangerous hours of the day.

If you must drive at night, reduce speed, stay well behind the cars ahead of you, and if you begin to feel fatigued, pull off the road and get out of the car. Fresh air and a short walk sharpen senses.

Vary the position of hands on the steering wheel to prevent strain on arms and shoulders. Change radio stations often and avoid heavy meals. Don't drive much farther!

Keep the windshield clean and avoid troublesome glare from approaching headlights. Remember to dim your headlights for oncoming cars even if the other fellow doesn't. Slow down and watch the edge of the road.

If your car hasn't a lighter, which it should have (a real safety device), have someone else light your smoke for you as the flare of match or pocket lighter may blind you momentarily.

Watch for animals on the road, and be constantly on the alert for pedestrians in dark clothing.

OFFER HELP

The National Travelers Aid Association offers assistance to any traveler in an emergency situation or in the event personal problems arise while on a trip. There are Travelers Aid stations in 109 cities in the United States. Travelers Aid personnel are experienced in helping people in difficulty. Ask a policeman or state trooper where the nearest Travelers Aid station is located if you run into trouble.

had one within a reasonable length of time.

If you take medicine regularly, make sure you have enough for the trip. To be on the safe side, take a copy of your prescription with you. Carry your doctor's card so that he can be reached if necessary. Carry necessary data to indicate if you are allergic to any of the antibiotics.

Carry your hospitalization insurance identification card.

If you wear glasses, better take an extra pair.

If you haven't been to your dentist recently, see him before you leave. Don't gamble on a toothache spoiling your fun.

Keep a first-aid kit and instruction book handy.

Take along enough games, toys and books for the children. They may become restless during the trip and some amusement will help relieve tension. A stop for exercise about every two hours will help. Singing and keeping score of out-of-town license plates will also help.

Carry water from a safe source in a large vacuum jug as a change of drinking water is sometimes distressing to youngsters.

Tell children not to stand on seats, not to play with door handles and instrument panel and not to put head or arms out of windows.

Wisconsin Welcomes Vacationing Visitors

From the Apostle Islands - green jewels in the deep blue waters of Lake Superior - to the sand beach of Lake Geneva - practically a suburb of Chicago - Wisconsin's State Parks and Forests welcome millions of summer visitors.

Acres of tents and tablecloths, tons of charcoal and hot dogs, and armadas of motorboats will move through the entrance gates at 32 of these state-owned playgrounds. With all this equipment for fun and relaxation will come the campers, picnickers, boaters, bathers, and those who want just fresh air and open space.

And the parks and forests will be ready for this throng of people, as ready as they can be.

Campers will find 342 new campsites ready for use in seven areas, and more may be added as the season progresses. New picnic grounds, parking lots, sanitary facilities, bathhouses, marinas, and roads will show up this summer in various parks and forest recreation areas.

Despite these improvements and additions, park officials won't promise that campers will find all the tent sites they need, or unused picnic tables just where they want them. On holiday week ends, especially, some parks are definitely expected to be full.

It will be first-come, first-served, and when the campgrounds are full, the park managers will have no choice but to ask people to look elsewhere. The best idea, then, is to have in mind a couple of alternatives; nearby parks or campgrounds to head for if the first choice is full.

PARK RULES ARE SIMPLE

As for park rules, they are simple and just common courtesy covers most of them. Dogs are permitted except in buildings and on beaches, and must be kept on the leash. No camp may be set up after 10 p.m., or torn down before 6 a.m., and reservations for camp sites cannot be accepted.

Again this year, the Wisconsin Conservation Department will issue weekly bulletins on campground conditions and possible expansion. The parks expected to be most crowded over the week ends will be named, so that visitors may avoid the risks involved in going there.

Wisconsin's parks - like those of every other state - are too small and too few to accommodate everyone who might like to use them. But for millions of visitors each year they offer fresh air, recreational opportunities, outdoor sports, and all kinds of family fun.

Information about Wisconsin State Parks and Forests may be obtained from the Wisconsin Conservation Department recreation-publicity section, Box 450, Madison 1; the Wisconsin Official Vacation Center, 205 North Michigan, Chicago; or the Conservation Department office at 794 N. Jefferson, Milwaukee.

EASY DOES IT--Thanks to modern equipment, even the most petite Junior Miss finds it easy to handle an outboard powered boat if they have proper knowledge of launching and retrieving a boat with a car. Here a crew of lovely sailors demonstrate how easy the job is when you know how to use your car to do it.

Life And Death On The Highway Is Your Job

Remember, the use of the highway is a cooperative, not a competitive matter. When you encounter the uncooperative, do not compete. He will meet one of his own later on.

Most of us know all the rules of safe driving. How we apply them determines whether we will return safely. The terrible truth in statistics is warning enough to the cautious driver. Seven hundred Americans died every week due to highway accidents.

Here are a few suggestions that will help keep life and limb intact on the highway:

HIGHWAY HYPNOSIS

This is one offshoot of the deluxe roads. Mile after mile of broad, repetitious highway going by at continuously high speeds can deaden senses even if a driver isn't sleepy.

Thus, on broad highways in daylight, serious collisions happen between vehicles traveling in the same lane, that are not attributable to sudden stops or following too closely.

To cope with highway hypnosis, a driver should first slow down to avoid serious accidents should the hypnosis take place.

Take frequent refreshment breaks and vary speeds within a safe range. Alternate turns at the wheel, don't try for speed records or a daily "must". Keep the car cool and well ventilated, sit erect and keep alert.

Important: Don't take drugs in any form as a hypnotic deterrent.

The ingredients of this super-highway phenomenon are swiftly moving, closely spaced vehicles, streaming two or more abreast on a divided or undivided super highway. The "trigger" is a slowing, stopping or turning of any member of the pack; this sets the reaction in motion. Accompanied by a cacophony of screaming rubber and crashing bumpers, the second, or "closing accordion" phase follows. Frequently, during this phase, cars careen into the opposite bound lane, to trigger a second and similar reaction. As many as 50 vehicles have been recorded as involved in a single chain event of this type.

Avoidance lies primarily in maintaining a safe distance between your car and other vehicles, keeping to the right, and driving at moderate speed.

State Charges Fee At Parks

A fee of 50 cents per family unit per night will be charged at 22 Illinois state parks and memorials, starting July 1, William T. Lodge, Director of the Illinois Department of Conservation, announced. Organized youth groups will be charged a fee of one dollar per week or any portion of a week.

Parks and memorials where fees for camping will be charged are: Apple River Canyon; Beaver Dam; Chain O'Lakes; Chain O' Lakes, Oak Point; Giant City; Illini; Illinois Beach; Johnson-Sauk Trail; Kankakee River; Lake Argyle; Lake Le-Aqua-Na; Lake Murphysboro; Lake Ramsey; Lincoln Trail; Lowden Memorial; Mississippi Palisades; New Salem; Siloam Springs; Starved Rock; Weldon Springs; White Pines Forest; and Spring Lake.

Legal Tips For The Traveler

Pets

If you're planning to take the family dog along on your trip, be prepared to show an anti-rabies vaccination certificate and a health certificate. Though documentary evidence is not always requested, more than 35 states may ask you for one or both of these papers before letting you enter with your dog.

Canada requires an anti-rabies inoculation certificate within 12 months previous to taking your pet into the country. Prior to taking pets into Mexico a permit must be obtained. This can be gotten from a Mexican Consulate. "Seeing eye" and performing dogs, which are kept under direct control at all times, are exempt from these requirements.

Wherever you go, remember that certain municipalities have laws covering unleashed pets, so be sure to check with local officials before turning your dog loose.

Before you start out, see your veterinarian. He may suggest a motion-sickness preventive for your dog and can probably give you some helpful advice on how to make your pet's trip a pleasant one.

Speed Limits

Maximum speed limits on the open highway vary throughout the country, with a differential of as much as 20 mph between some states and as slight as five mph between others. In all cases, the limit is set for safety reasons, so familiarize yourself with the requirements of the states you plan to visit and drive carefully and intelligently.

What might be considered safe driving on a bright sunny day can be exceedingly dangerous during bad weather.

Hitchhikers

Before giving anyone a lift, be sure you're not violating a local law. Many states prohibit hitchhiking and impose a penalty for infractions. Some states penalize the thumbwaver only; others, the hitchhiker and driver, and still others, the hitchhiker, driver and owner.

Best rule is DON'T give hitchhikers a ride. Many acts of violence have occurred as a result of picking up hitchhikers, a road hazard never to be underestimated. Remember too that someone along a lonely road may seem to have a disabled car and be soliciting help, when in reality, he is trying to trap a victim.
